Together with an international team and the support of experienced startup coaches, you will develop your own innovative startup idea by identifying current problems and challenges, creating a new product or service, and designing an innovative and sustainable business model.

The Global Startup Class is a blended program. The first week will take place in Berlin, the second week is fully online.

Some seats are reserved for students of the HWR Berlin and students of our international partner universities, especially: Metropolia University of Applied Sciences, Amsterdam University of Applied Sciences and Rotterdam University of Applied Sciences.

Skills and methods learned in the Global Startup Class will come handy for your career and life. For full participation and the final pitch you will get a minimum of 3 ECTS (can vary depending on your university).

You want to be part of the Global Startup Class 2022? Then don't miss out and apply. Check out the website for more information.
